@Gargugi They had rights. Gov't recognises those rights for people. They decided in certain cases some people aren't people. It was wrong.

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015
Replying to @Gargugi
@Gargugi They were granted nothing. The gov't recognized what they had all along and were denied.

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015
Replying to @Gargugi
@Gargugi Yes, it does. The same way it inflates wages. But it's doesn't make those things worth more.

Replying to @Gargugi
@Gargugi because when Congress does something it sends a strong signal that such a think is really supported.

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015
Replying to @Gargugi
@Gargugi Yes, he does and none have done it in 98 years. Why? Because it wreaks of arrogance. No problem for Obama though.

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015
Replying to @Gargugi
@Gargugi Maybe it isn't missing? If it is missing who took it? Maybe they should live within their means.

from:RocksEm until:2016-01-01

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015
Replying to @Gargugi
@Gargugi he should have deffered to Congress to show it had real support instead of a unilateral move wreaking of arrogance.

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015
Replying to @Gargugi
@Gargugi Then Congress should have passed a law. It has in 40 years. Why, because everyone else was just fine with it. Arrogance.

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015
Replying to @Gargugi
@Gargugi Go under what? Maybe the federal gov't should be sucking so much money out of the states to begin with.

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015
Replying to @Gargugi
@Gargugi I dispute the idea of denial. If there was no gov't people would still get married. It only about recognition for legal purposes.

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015
Replying to @Gargugi
@Gargugi I believe the powers of the fedral gov't are fairly limited. Where they aren't limited is in what the federal gov't does for itself

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015

@Gargugi So, how does this give SCOTUS power? They give tax breaks for all kinds of stuff that some people can't get.

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015
Replying to @Gargugi
@Gargugi BTW Why should Alaska be able to dicate to the federal gov't what feds call a mountain but Alaska can't decide marriage in Alaska?

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015
Replying to @Gargugi
@Gargugi I don't understand what that means.

from:RocksEm until:2016-01-01

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015
Replying to @Gargugi
@Gargugi Then a legislature should vote to make it so. Nowhere in the Constitution is mariage defined. SCOTUS has no power there.

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015
Replying to @Gargugi
@Gargugi 14th amendment has nothing to do with marriage or abortion.

RocksEm @RocksEm · 30 Aug 2015
